Historical Background

It's late October, 1942. Since the arrival of General Montgomery to El Alamein, tense preparations are taking place both in British and Rommel's German-Italian lines. The battle of El Alamein is about to begin.

Objectives

In the meantime, the Commandos will lead small harassing incursions against Rommel's positions. Today, you are commissioned to attack a supply center in Tell el Eisa. If you succeed, this will leave a whole Armoured Division without supplies.

Tactical Advice

Well, officer, you'll start from these ruins in the northwest. Then you'll infiltrate the camp and blow up all the oil barrels, the fuel depots, and this large reservoir. Then you'll meet a friendly vehicle in the extraction point. And that will be all. Thank you very much.

Trivia

- This is the first of four missions in North Africa which have the commandos in desert camo and viewcones in orange shades.
